DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The specification remains objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o).

Correction of the following is required: The recitation of the composition being for application to an animal (claim 8) does not have antecedent basis in the specification.

✓ The Applicant contends that page 11, lines 1-4 provide such basis, however, these lines refer to a person. As the term "animal" is broader than "person", an antecedent basis for the term "animal" should be defined in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pears in view of Prince. In regard to claims 1, 3, 4, 5 and 12, Pears discloses a lip-stick product comprised of a container having walls wherein the product is in sliding contact with the walls (i.e., the product slides along portions b and e and as these portions are part of the walls, the product can be said to be in sliding contact with the walls). Although the stick is not disclosed as being formed from two different compositions, attention is directed to the Prince reference, which discloses another lipstick product wherein the product is formed from a first composition 14 and a second composition 11 which differ in color to form a predetermined multi-color image in order to enable a user to easily apply two different colors of lipstick. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include such a two-composition lip-stick into the Pears container in order to enable a user to easily apply a lipstick having two different colors. In regard to claim 2, the interior and exterior surfaces of the Pears container are different. In regard to claim 6, the image is a circle. In regard to claim 7, each cross-section of the stick contains the same image. In regard to claim 8, the stick is used for application. It is noted that the statements of intended use, i.e., for application to an animal, do not lend any patentable structure to the claims. In regard to claim 9, the composition is a lip-stick. In regard to claim 10, the composition includes a pharmaceutically acceptable vehicle. In regard to claim 11, the composition comprises a colorant. In regard to claim 13, the prince stick composition is disclosed as being any preparation to be applied to the surface of a human body for cleaning and conditioning the skin (column 2, lines 40-43). Accordingly, as lip balm is applied to human skin and used for conditioning the lip, the Prince reference anticipates the use of lip balm.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
